O. FIELD.

DAVIN TO HIS CONSTITUENTS.

An Enthusiastic Meeting of the Electors of Moose Jaw

A large meeting of the electors of the Moose Jaw District gathered in the town Hall yesterday afternoon to hear Mr. Davin address them before leaving for the session at Ottawa. Mr. Thos. B. Baker was appointed chairman.

Mr. Davin, when called upon was greeted with applause. After congratulating the people of Moose Jaw on the marked improvement in the appearance and evident progress of the town and explaining the delay re the Moose Jaw Court House which was due to the death of Mr. Weeks, one of the contractors, he proceeded to lay before the meeting the legislation of the past six years.

Mr. Davin referred to the excitement now existing over the question of tariff reform and gave an interesting history of the adoption by the conservative party of the policy of Protection. He said, "When I came to this country in July 1872. I came saturated with the principles enunciated by John Stuart Mill, the apostle of Free Trade—the Adam Smith of the nineteenth century—he stated to me that he himself believed in protection for new countries—nevertheless, it is my firm belief that there is nothing more opposed to the fundamental principles of protection than a combine. The farmer is the greatest manufacturer of all. He produces the wherewithal to feed the nation. So in protecting manufacturers why not protect him. The duty on binder twine opposes the farmer and should be removed. The duty on coal oil should be removed entirely or else materially reduced and the greater part of our summer cooking could be performed with coal oil, thus effecting an important saving when fuel is so scarce."

The speaker then dealt in similar manner with the duty on barbed wire and on agricultural implements and the grinding in bond of American wheat. He referred to his efforts re compelling the C. P. R. to plow fire guards and to adopt the air brake on freight trains. He spoke of his fight for second homesteads—a fight that lasted six years.

In closing his able address Mr. Davin denounced the principle of sending men to Ottawa as mere voting machines. "A member's duty is to his whole country. Much has been done for Canada. There are great things yet to be accomplished: great evils yet to be swept away. And, as in a valley of Chemoqui, an avalanche may hang held by slender ligaments, until the voice perchance of a young girl singing through the vale, sets the air in vibration, and brings down that awful deluge of snow, so may one man's voice raised, in the interests of right, be the means of removing great national evils that hang over the head of a young nation." (Loud applause.)

Loud calls were now made for Mr. Wm. Rutherford, who came forward and gave some of his personal history in Scotland as well as in Canada. He told in a humorous manner of his first meeting with Mr. Davin. He recounted some of the difficulties that attend the farming industry and spoke in favor of a removal of such duties as oppressed the farmer.

Mr. S. K. Rathwell asked Mr. Davin if a memorial would strengthen his plea for the removal of duty on implements and binding twine.

Mr. Wm. Watson asked if any help towards the Moose Jaw creamery could be obtained from the government.

Mr. J. H. Ross M.L.A. drew the attention of the member for Western Assiniboia to a movement for the erection of a dam on the Moose Jaw River, and asked that steps be taken to secure a grant for the purpose. He dwelt on the fact that the Government as one of the proprietors of the Moose Jaw townsite has been "drawing large amounts of money from the town, and any grant towards such a movement would only be returning a portion of this money."

Mr. Davin in reply promised to take up the matter in question.

A vote of confidence was moved by Wm. Watson and seconded by Mr. T. E. McWilliams and carried unanimously.

A SIOUX VENDETTA.

Intestinal Feuds Among our Local Indians.

For a period of nine years the Sioux who have camped in the vicinity of Moose Jaw have been peaceful and law abiding. Their residence has been marked by an almost total absence of trouble with the whites or intestinal disputes. About six months ago, however, an Indian named Etachaka or Jim McKay joined the camp. It is stated that he came from the vicinity of Regina, where he was at one time employed as police scout. McKay brought with him his mother-in-law "Etsa" or "Windy Woman" and his squaw "Susie." Since the arrival of this family considerable quarrelling and fighting has taken place, and one result was the attempted suicide recently reported in the Times. As a sequel to this on Monday morning an Indian named "Muzzastehalaska" or "White Rabbit" and his squaw named "Wambele Hota" or "Flying Eagle" laid information before Seymour Green, J. P. that Flying Eagle had been attacked by the two squaws belonging to the McKay family and McKay's son "Tapa." The attack, it was alleged was made with knives and sticks.

After the warrant was sworn out Constable Cargar and Inspector Battell drove to the camp with K. P. McKaskill as interpreter, and arrested McKay's mother-in-law, squaw and son. The prisoners were placed in the lock-up.

A MAGISTRATE'S COURT

was held in the town hall on Tuesday before Henry Dorrell and Seymour Green, J. P. Mr. W. J. Nelson appeared for the defence. A large crowd of people including many Indians were present. After a lapse of half an hour the prosecuting Indian "White Rabbit" failed to put in appearance, although notified by the policeman to do so. The magistrates then dismissed the case and the prisoners were released from custody.

White Rabbit, it subsequently transpired, did not understand why he should be compelled to give "two talks" as he had told his story when laying the information. Fearing that Etachaka was putting up a job on him, he went to "Tatokeka Sappa" or Black Bull to ask his advice. Black Bull told him, that it might be necessary for him to "fappy" three times before he was through and that everything was regular. By the time "White Rabbit" had returned to town the trial was over.

The Indians at Moose Jaw are the remnants of a number of tribes of the Teton. It is reported that the present feud is the outcome of a vendetta that has existed for a great number of years. It is highly probable that blood will be spilt before the matter is settled.

Daily Immigration Policy

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Hon. Thomas Layton Davin's accession to the head of the Canadian department of the interior is resulting in a vigorous immigration policy being waged in Great Britain in the interests of the Dominion. A feature of his new policy is the granting of increased commission payments to those steamship agents who encourage booking to Winnipeg and the Canadian North-West, instead of to Australia.

Various efforts are also being made to increase immigration from Norway and Sweden to Canada. However, in these countries owing to more or less opposition to the loss of inhabitants, agents have to go about their work quietly.

LAW AND LOTS OF IT.

High Times Spent a Season for Rent—A Season in "The Church Case."

It will be remembered that some days ago some goods and chattels in possession of John Burns had been distrained for rent by his landlord, Jackson Battell. The seized property consisted of three horses and one milch cow. On this binder the Massey-Harris Company had a lien. The bailiff, Oswald B. Fysh secured this binder by locating the big wheel to a post in the vicinity of Walsh's livery stable.

"Lore," they say "laugh at Locksmiths." So does the agent of the Massey-Harris Company. Armed with a distress warrant, Mr. Fysh brought his knowledge of implements to bear upon the binder in question and removed to his warehouse every portion of it save the big wheel.

Under a writ of replevin the binder was retaken and sold with the other chattels yesterday afternoon. The matter will probably be settled by civil process.

THE CHURCH TRIANGLE

It will be remembered that when judgment was given for the plaintiff in the case of McDougall vs. McLean and Potter the defendants gave notice of appeal. It seems that the solicitor for the defendants neglected to apply for a stay of execution. Yesterday Sheriff Benson paid the lower a visit and made a seizure of some cattle belonging to Mr. Dan McLean. The amount however the execution was, however, paid yesterday and it is the popular opinion that the appeal will not be proceeded with.

CARNEL CHIRPING

Surprise parties seem to be the day. Recently quite a number of young people gathered at the residence of Mr. Stephen Hudson where a very enjoyable evening was spent in singing, parlor games, etc. The Carnel Choir gave a few selections which were suitable for the occasion. Miss Susie Glover presided at the organ. Mr. C. Lyon gave one of his favorites, entitled "The Last Letter," which was loudly applauded. Although there was a severe storm raging they did not fear being lost for A. S. held the reins which guided the bronchos. They were on time accepting G. M. who had a long distance to walk and very bad walking too. It seems he had so craved up the snowbanks to take observations of the light he was steering for. He arrived on time to say good-bye, and go home with the girls in the morning.

Mrs. E. J. Kerr and her sister Miss Florence Powell are visiting friends here.

Mr. E. Tapley is visiting at Elm Grove Ranch this week.

Mr. Robert Moore is the happiest man in the district. It's a bracing baby boy.

North-West Service for the Army.

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.—The mounted constab and various other local bodies of Calgary have petitioned the Dominion Government asking forth the importance of some breeding in the Alberta District, and the vast advantages which would be derived by both the province and Imperial Government were a combined purchasing depot and training school for horses established there. The statement made in the petition in support of its prayer are thoroughly practical, pointing out how large a field is now open for supplying the best and most practicable breeds, and the fact that ranchers have steadily continued to improve their stock by importing considerable numbers of thoroughbred stallions.

DANCE AT THE BARRACKS.

A Graphic description of a Pleasant Evening.

One of the most pleasing events of the season was the ball given by the Quadrille Club of the Mounted Police, on Friday evening. Through the kindness of the committee in charge, teams were sent to town for the accommodation of the guests.

The spacious dancing hall was thrown open. The decorations were gorgeous. The ceiling was festooned in variegated colors. The walls were tastefully decorated: the floor was in perfect condition: every requisite for comfort and enjoyment was provided.

"The band played"—played seductive strains that sent the blood career-ing through one's veins. The dance began. What pen can describe the scene—the handsome uniforms of the officers and men, the conventional evening dress of the gentlemen guests, and the beautiful draperies of the ladies? Certainly not mine. Who hath woes? Who hath anything else that makes him morose and cranky? Let him but come and gaze on a scene like this and enjoy the dreamy waltz, the sprightly lancers or the lively quadrille!

The floor was once or twice just a little crowded. I counted in one square dance twenty sets on the floor—that would represent one hundred and sixty dancers. One waltz in particular I shall not soon forget. My partner was an adept in the art, and the music was ravishing. A few steps—and then the floor seemed to slip from beneath our feet and we abandoned ourselves—at least I did—to the perfect enjoyment of the seventh heaven of happiness. How long this alarming state of affairs would have lasted I know not, but an officer coming down the room with a full head of steam on, plunged into us, and made me realize that after all I was living in a cold, practical, matter-of-fact world.

I expressed to the leader of the orchestra a desire to know the name of the waltz tune, and for answer he gave me a list of all the selections for the evening—I give them below:—

Caucasian Circle.....	Cat Away
Waltz.....	Blue Danube
Quadrille.....	Lavinia
Polka.....	Langtry
Lancers.....	Highland Echo
Waltz.....	H. M. S. Pinafore
Waltz.....	My Queen
Schottische.....	Golden Gate
Quadrille.....	Society
Waltz.....	Cecilia
Polka.....	Wanderer
Lancers.....	Pirates of Penzance
Schottische.....	Forget me not
Lancers.....	Mikado
Highland Schottische.....	Ruddy Gore
Waltz.....	Pish, Pish
Quadrille.....	Sweet Dreamland
Polka.....	Princess
Schottische.....	Maarico
Waltz.....	Cynthia
Jersey.....	Buckshot
Lancers.....	Comin' Thro' the Rye
Waltz.....	Alhambra
Galop.....	Selected
Sir Roger de Coverley.....	Selected

I must not forget to mention that at a ball in the programme Mrs. Macdonell played a few extra waltzes and polkas that were thoroughly enjoyed.

Towards the close of the evening the whispered enquiry was frequently heard "who is the Belle?" Why is it necessary to tickle the vanity of one girl and perhaps two or three of her intimate friends by creating such individual distinctions? Does it not tend to create petty jealousies in the mind of others who if not really as attractive are at least so in their own estimation. And, after all, what person at a ball is entitled to be classed as belle? Is she the best dressed girl or the handsomest? Not so. The belle of the ball, I take it, is the one who dances divinely, and who in her every act deports herself as a gentleman.

Without these essential qualifications a girl is never "belle of the ball," even though she be clad like a princess, and as handsome as the day is long. In the present instance, however, there were so many "true belles" that I am not going to put my metaphorical foot in it by mentioning any names.

At last "Sir Roger" was reached. The final hand shakings took place. The police teams were promptly on hand to convey the guests back to town. And the ball was over.

Too much cannot be said of the efforts made by the managing committee to render the dance enjoyable to every person.

On the following day, under the protesting wing of Inspector Starna, I visited the barracks. A most enjoyable hour was spent looking over the various buildings. Everything showed evidence of rigid supervision and of the high character of the training that is being carried on.

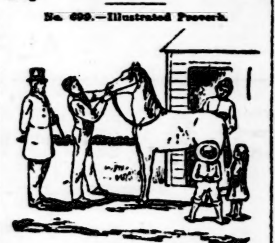

A matter of historic interest was the cell where Louis "David" Riel spent the last days of a misguided and useless life, and I stood, a moment later, on the spot where was erected the gallows on which, in the gray of a November morning he suffered the extreme penalty of the law.

ESTA MASA.

No. 697.—Numerical Enigma.
I am composed of 19 letters.
My 12, 6, 3 is a personal pronoun.
My 8, 19, 2, 4 is a wild animal.
My 13, 5, 16 is an active verb.
My 16, 19, 17 is a numeral.
My 13, 7, 14, 13, 10, 11 is to expand.
My 8, 19, 6, 10 is a vegetable.
My 15, 9, 2 is a body of water.
My 13, 6, 11, 4, 10, 7 is something unknown or hidden.

No. 698.—Hidden Words.
In the name of one of the plants proposed for a national flower may be found a range of mountains sloping toward both Europe and Asia, a meadow, a verb, "an epoch," "a mare," a king whose name is the title of one of Shakespeare's plays, a girl's name, a cloth measure, "true," a part of the head, every thing.

No. 700.—A Charade.
Little Tom and his sister went fishing.
Their ages were seven and five;
They returned all elated and smiling,
Declaring they'd caught some alive.
Triumphantly they opened their basket,
To let mamma see their grand prize.
"Why, these are not fish, they are one twin
You silly young ones, see their eyes!"
The children looked sore, disappointed,
And Tom laid his two on the floor,
Declaring he didn't like fishing.
And was sure he'd not go any more.

No. 701.—Cross Word Enigma.
My first is in water, but not in land;
My second in foot, but not in hand;
My third is in lark, but not in wren;
My fourth is in five, but not in ten;
My fifth and last is in eagle you'll see.
My whole a general brave was he,
Who died in the moment of victory.

No. 703.—Curtain-words.
Curtain "old," and have "generation."
Curtain "mature," and have "to tear a seam."
Curtain "a line used for measuring," and have a kind of fruit.
Curtain "a number of ships together," and have "to run away."
The curtained letters form a word meaning "liability," "obligation," "due."

The Cipher Puzzle.
The authenticity of Shakespeare's autograph being discussed by a large and merry party assembled round the fireside of a cheerful country house, a young lady present was heard to remark, "That, of all things, she envied the possessor of such a treasure." On retiring to rest, she discovered the following on her dressing table:

You O a O, but I O the;
O, O no O, but O, O me.
And O, let my O thy O be,
And give O O I O the;
This she translated as follows:
You sigh for a cipher, but I sigh for thee.
O, sigh for no cipher, but O, sigh for me.
And O, let my cipher thy cipher be
And give sigh for sigh, for I sigh for thee.

A Riddle in Rhyme.
Two brothers we are; great burdens we bear;
By some we are heavily pressed.
We are tall all the day, but in truth I say
We are empty when we go to rest.
—A pair of shoes.

No. 704.—Enigma: A Little Fairy.
Within my wings of silver
A little fairy lives.
When appears in a household
Glad joy and comfort gives.
She sings her songs of angels,
And the words that speak,
But to her hours in garments
She willingly will tell.
Now, name this useful fairy,
That shines pale, too,
Her golden, nightly dance,
Of all her bidding do.

No. 732.—A Rhyming Numerical Enigma.

1. A word in much demand, 'tis true,
Is this little word, 5, 1, 2.
2. A well known foreign plant you'll see,
Is spelled by using 5, 2, 3.
3. This very morn I found alive
In my now trap 4, 3, 5.
4. If you would hear a little more,

Your understanding owns my worth
And blameless daily walk.

No. 734.—An Animal in Anagram.

I saw on the street a descendant of Ham,
Not ill of disease, but "ill o' a dram."
This anagram straight ahead you've seen, I suppose,
In pictures, and, maybe, in animal shows;
And if you have seen it you've noticed the look
Of even a smile of fur on its back.

No. 735.—Enigmatical Pictorial.

A substance used for polishing; to find fault; a beam of light; a register of persons; a weapon; a person easily cheated; a measure of length.

No. 736.—Easy Riddle.

I am a little word composed of only five letters, yet so great is my weight that strong men have been crushed by me, and I have been known to destroy life by pressing too heavily upon those with whom I came in contact. I am of the plural number, yet by adding the letter S I become singular. If, before adding the letter S, you cut off my head and tail, what remains is a verb implying excitement; if, instead of thus mutilating me, you place my second letter before my first, I am changed into what will make a poor man rich. My 3, 2, 1, 4 is that in which many die, but only one wins; my 5, 1, 3, 2 means to alarm; my 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 to burn; my 1, 3, 5 is very necessary; my 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 is a word meaning to complete; my 5, 2, 3, 1 is of considerable and delicate construction; my 1, 3, 5, 4 is valued very highly by a physician, who frequently has more 1-5-3-4 than a follower of our other profession.
